FISCAL ANALYSIS

ASSUMPTION

Officials from the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education assume this proposal will have no fiscal impact on their agency or school districts.

Officials from the Parkway and Poplar Bluff School Districts state this proposal would have no significant fiscal impact on their respective districts.

Officials from the Columbia School District (CSD) state their district is already actively working and communicating with parents through building level administrators. CSD officials assume the language in this proposed legislation requires that parent communication must be initiated and coordinated from the central district wide administration. Under this scenario CSD assumes a first year cost of about $75,000 to implement a program. The cost will be dependant upon the rules and regulations adopted by the State Board of Education.

In response to an identical proposal from last session (SB 1208), officials from the St Louis School District assumed no fiscal impact to their district. Officials from the Kansas City Missouri School District assumed fiscal impact would amount to time and cost of drafting a district policy; publishing and disseminating the policy to all sites; monitoring each site to determine if adherence to policy is occurring, and whether all practical steps to improve parental support is taking place. On the positive side, the proposal could improve parental support which could result in a higher attendance rate and more revenue.

Oversight assumes the state Board of Education will not be issuing rules and regulations; they will adopt a policy which encourages parental involvement and this policy will be considered when local school boards adopt their own policies. DESE has indicated no fiscal impact for adopting the model policy; therefore, Oversight assumes local school districts should not have significant fiscal impact to adopt local policy.
