FISCAL ANALYSIS

ASSUMPTION

Officials from the Office of Administration - Budget and Planning assume the bill eliminates Missouri's estate tax. This tax is based on the parallel credit on the federal estate tax. However, this credit was gradually sunset by the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001, and is currently expired. Little to no estate tax revenues are anticipated in FYs 2007-2009. Therefore, this proposal would have no impact on general and total state revenues.

However, these provisions of the EGTRRA are set to expire in FY 2011, at which time the state estate tax would again be applicable based on current statutes.

Officials from the Department of Revenue assume the proposal would not fiscally impact their agency. The estate tax repeal was effective in 2005, and the repeal expires in 2010.

Officials from the University of Missouri - Economic and Policy Analysis Research Center state because no revenues are currently collected from the estate tax, the fiscal impact of this statute on Missouri's general revenues will be zero. More specifically, there is no change in net general revenue if this bill is adopted.

Oversight assumes the bill would not have a fiscal impact to the state until FY 2011, which is beyond the scope of this fiscal note.
