FISCAL ANALYSIS

ASSUMPTION

Officials from the Department of Higher Education and Workforce Development assume the proposal will have no fiscal impact on their organization.

Officials from Southeast Missouri State University (SEMO) there is a potential positive impact of an undetermined amount on Southeast Missouri State University, which is revenue that may come due to any enrollment increases realized in programs related to the statewide mission designation. The University is not seeking any additional appropriations via this legislation to implement the statewide mission. This is consistent with other institutions of higher education in Missouri that have a statewide mission in that the mere fact a school has a statewide mission does not mean additional state support has always followed to implement it. Therefore, any positive impact an institution may experience would likely be the result of actions at the institutional level such as increased marketing, new students, program enhancements, etc. and not necessarily the result of new money from the state. The statewide mission designation made the subject of this legislation has been unanimously endorsed by the Coordinating Board for Higher Education, and it does not duplicate a mission of any other institution of higher education in Missouri that has been granted a statewide mission.

In response to a similar proposal, HB 2151 (2020), officials from the University of Missouri System assumed the proposal would have no fiscal impact on their organization.

Oversight notes that SEMO stated the proposal would have a positive fiscal impact on their organization. However, Oversight assumes there could be costs associated with implementing the statewide mission. Therefore, Oversight will show a range of impact of $0 (statewide mission not implemented) to an unknown increase in revenue from the expansion of its statewide mission to an unknown cost to implement the statewide mission. Oversight notes this proposal is permissive.
